

VENETO BY TRAIN

SEMINAR WEEK · SPRING SEMESTER · 2022
PROF. HOLZER · INSTITUT FÜR DENKMALPFLEGE UND BAUFORSCHUNG

It takes just an hour to travel from Verona to Venice by train. However, this railroad passes through centuries of history and architectural heritage in Veneto, which definitely deserves a whole week of dedicated travelling. Right in the centre of this outstanding region, the institute is carrying out a major multi-year research project on one of the most important monuments of the 13th century, the Basilica of St Anthony in Padua. We will take advantage of our intimate knowledge of this city and spend a week at Padua, going back and forth by train to explore a variety of picturesque landscapes and fascinating buildings ranging from antiquity to classical modernity. We will exploit our privileged access to some of the landmark monuments to permit some once-in-a-lifetime experiences, reaching far behind the surface that is accessible to the normal tourist. That way, the journey will convey deepened insight into the challenges, methods, and most recent results of our Bauforschung in the former dominion of Venice.
