KINTSUKUROI of Reuse

Reuse and Upcycling are revolutionising the consumption cult of the brand new with a Maternal ingenuity to sustainable repurposing.

Together with Prof. B. Buser and numerous experts, the seminar week's program will focus on finding aesthetic and economic merit in the combinations, defects and creative intersections of available materials from the environment they are placed in.

We will gradually explore the beauty and power of resilience through the Wabi-Sabi philosophy of Kintsukuroi. Starting from a micro-scale of materials with a pottery workshop, followed by the medi-scale of the building to then the macro-scale of bridging the history of a landscape's imperfections.

Adding Value through reuse means not just finding qualities in old materials, building components, or everyday objects, but also changing value-systems in a new objective to preserve, rename, update, iterate, fix, repair and beautify.
